Governor Cuomo Announces Ski Resorts Will Be Allowed to Reopen This Coming Winter Beginning November 6th.

“Ski resorts will be allowed to reopen with limited indoor capacity, which will allow New Yorkers to have some outdoor activity this winter without having to quarantine when they come back.”

State guidance on the reopening of ski resorts includes the following precautions:

- ✓ Masks required at all times, except when eating/drinking or skiing.
- ✓ Social distancing between parties required at all times.
- ✓ Restrict gondolas/lifts to members of the same party.
- ✓ Limit ski lessons to no more than 10 people.
- ✓ Thorough cleaning and disinfection of shared/rented equipment.
- ✓ Shuttles, food & beverage, retail service must conform to State-issued guidance.
- ✓ Reduce indoor capacity to 50%.
- ✓ Reduce outdoor capacity on mountain by 25% during "peak" days or if multiple trails are closed due to unseasonable conditions.

“If you ski NY this year, not only do you have what I think is the best skiing in the United States of America...There are significant ski professionals who will say skiing in NY is better than skiing anywhere in the country. They happen to be personal friends of mine but they will say that. But there's an added benefit. If you ski in NY, not only do you have the best skiing in the United States, but you don't have to quarantine when you come back...Go skiing in one of these other states, then you have to quarantine for 14 days. Ski for 2, quarantine for 14...”
